Scott of The New York Times gave the film three and a half stars out of four, saying "The most genuinely apian aspect of Bee Movie is that it spends a lot of its running time buzzing happily around, sniffing out fresh jokes wherever they may bloom. The final pre-production draft was ready in January following "a concentrated two-week writing and water-skiing period in Barbados".

The director, Terry Jones, issued the following ripost to this criticism: The logo of the Judean People's Front, designed by Terry Gilliam, [18] was a Star of David with a small line added to each point so it resembled a swastika most familiar in the West as the symbol of the anti-Semitic Nazi movement.
